... BE... and I am set on saving you! Return of the King Part VI: The Battle of the Five Armies The Battle of the Five Armies takes place between Smaug, Gandalf and the armies of Thranduil, Durin, the Dwarves and the Men of Lake-town. It also encompasses the rest of the forces that were left in Mirkwood at the end of The Hobbit, Bilbo's Quest and the Battle of the Five Armies. After Smaug's death in the Battle of Five Armies, it is speculated that the Elves took control of Dol Guldur and the Necromancer was released from his prison. Bilbo may have played a part in this by visiting Bilbo's Last Home during The Hobbit, and it is possible that his home may have been destroyed during the Battle of Five Armies. Smaug's apparent death in the Battle of Five Armies may have caused the destruction of his lair as well as the destruction of his artifacts that he had kept secret throughout his life. During the Battle of the Five Armies, an orc reaches the threshold of Dol Guldur and Thorin Oakenshield falls into the room with Bilbo and Bofur, and is rescued by Gandalf. Thorin and Gandalf are attacked by Balrogs and the fight continues to the front of the room. The Balrogs are slain by the lights of Dol Guldur and their souls join the other fallen Necromancer. The remains of the Necromancer are then sealed in a stone tomb in the mines of Moria, where he will remain undisturbed until his servants free him in the Fourth Age. Many other events occur in the War of the Dwarves and Elves, the Oakenshields' fall, the Smaug's death, the fall of the Necromancer and his servants and the short episode, where the Witch-king slays the King of the Golden Land. The Battle of the Five Armies Smaug's death is depicted in The Battle of the Five Armies. A few days after the battle, the characters are informed of Smaug's demise. Bilbo is told by the dragon Smaug, a rival and self-proclaimed king. Bilbo returns home and the others are met by the King of the Golden Land, who announces that he will assume the crown. Bilbo is advised to take up his hobbit home at 82157476af
