Difference between FlexiSign-PRO 8.1 and Tally – X4.NET From the software's options and features, they're quite similar. But, the most significant differences in between the two are that FlexiSign is a standalone application that contains all you need for creating professional invoices, online billing, customer receipts, and estimating invoices, and even supports integration with Excel, Word, and other CRM. FlexiSign-PRO is an included add-on to Tally – X4.NET, a hosted accounting software that can be used for small businesses without the need for a local server. Tally-X4.NET is a specialized accounting software that is used to integrate with several external accounts, such as business management software, human resources software, and more.

FlexiSign has a lot of versatile features that are typically integrated with other Tally packages such as following . FlexiSign-PRO gives you full control on how invoices are generated and distributed. It allows you to automate your day to day operation by creating a smart PDF document. This PDF will automate the sales flow and can generate invoices, receipts, letter heads, and more . With the help of signature capture, you can scan the signature and generate the invoice. You can also use this feature to create email receipts that are sent to your clients automatically when a purchase order is placed. A user is allowed to link an account with a signer that has access to the account. This allows the signer to access the linked account, and it can be their contact email address. Since the application is designed in the form of a browser-based application, it is easier to use. This means that there is no need to install software on your local machine. The application allows you to create invoices and bills in your company online which will help save paper. Key features of FlexiSign-PRO.

- Create invoices and bills in your company online
- Create templates for various types of business for custom use and online access
- Create professional invoice forms with new customizations and integration with business management software
- Create professional receipts for your clients in a click of a button
- Customize invoice and receipt graphics
- Automatic calculation of taxes and other sales related charges
